1. THE CONSUL CLUB

Project Overview

The Consul is an invitation-only private members' club located on the top two floors of JLK Tower in Sukhumvit, Bangkok. It was conceived by Terry Kim, formerly of Alice Cheongdam, a cocktail bar in Seoul's Gangnam-gu district, and is linked to Jackson Wang's private club concept, Yang Club. Wang, a Hong Kong singer, rapper, and entrepreneur known globally as a member of the K-pop group GOT7 and for his solo career, also serves as creative director. The interiors were designed by Team Wang Design under his direction.

The layout is organized as a sequence of rooms with varying levels of openness and privacy. A large dining hall sits at the center of the plan and faces panoramic city views. Lighting and acoustics allow the space to shift from restaurant use during the day to a supper club setting in the evening. An internal staircase connects the main floor to Bar Won, a mezzanine bar overlooking the dining hall. More private areas are located deeper within the plan, including members dining rooms, a cigar lounge, an investors salon, and Yang Club, a separate enclosed nightlife space. Materials, lighting, and curved forms are used throughout to connect the two floors and create a warm, contemporary environment that changes character over the course of the night.

Location Map

The Consul is located on the two top floors of JLK Tower, a 32-storey Grade A office building with retail space, directly connected to Nana sky train station.

Entrance to the club. Team Wang Design developed the overall spatial concept for the club, including the restaurant, bar areas, and members-only spaces such as private dining rooms and lounges.

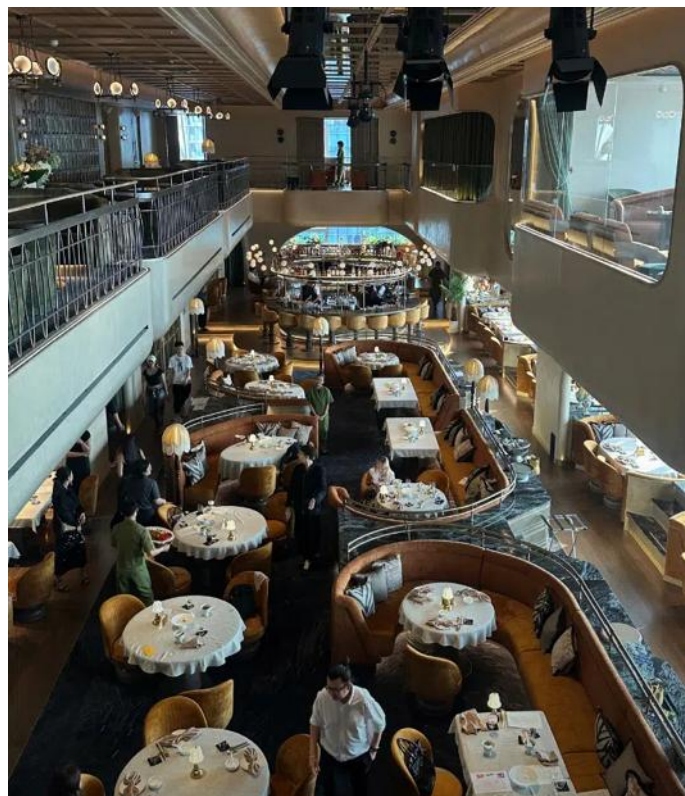

A large dining hall forms the center of the club, oriented toward panoramic city views.

The interior reflects the restaurant's focus on modern Chinese cuisine.

While the main restaurant and Bar Won are open to the public, the inner circle including Yang Club, the private dining rooms, cigar lounges, and the investors' lounge is strictly for members.

Bar Won, the crowning glory of the club, occupies the mezzanine level above the dining room and is reached via a grand staircase. Its name is multi-layered, hinting at "one," "origin," and the circle of harmony.
